BOOK SUMMARY

Made in the Middle

Made in the Middle is a 40-day devotional that offers encouragement, clarity, and hope for those navigating life's "middle" seasons - the places between the promise and its fulfillment. Myraio L. Mitchell, Sr. invites readers to view the middle not as a setback or detour, but as the very place where God refines, strengthens, and prepares us for what's ahead.

What happens when quitting is not an option? Through relatable analogies, scriptural insights, and actionable steps, Mitchell challenges readers to embrace the process, trust God's timing, and recognize that the middle is a necessary part of the journey. The devotionals address themes such as God's Waiting Room, Character Development, Guarding Your Heart in the Waiting Room, and Trusting God's Timing - offering a fresh perspective on how to persevere through uncertainty and experience the transformation happening beneath the surface.

Each devotional sheds light on the miracles and lessons found in the middle - those moments when God is quietly shaping our faith, renewing our minds, and molding us into who He created us to be. Made in the Middle will inspire readers to hold onto their faith and keep moving forward, even when quitting feels like the easiest option. By the end of this journey, you'll see the middle not as an inconvenience but as the place where you are made.

EXCERPT

“One of the greatest threats to purpose is an undeveloped character. God loves us too much to leave us in a state that could hinder our growth. In His waiting room, He doesn't simply call us to be still; He uses this time as a tool for shaping our character. Just as pressure and time produce a diamond, waiting on God builds the resilience, integrity, and maturity we need to fulfill His calling.”
